Appropriation Language: $2,000,000 in the first year is to the commissioner of natural resources for an agreement with the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association to restore and enhance public forest lands in the northern forest region for moose habitat purposes. A list of proposed land restoration and enhancements must be provided as part of the required accomplishment plan.

County Locations: Cook, Lake, and St. Louis.

Eco regions in which work was completed:

- Northern Forest

Activity types:

- Enhance

Priority resources addressed by activity:

- Forest
- Habitat

Summary of Accomplishments:

The Minnesota Moose Habitat Collaborative enhanced approximately 7349 acres of moose habitat in northern forests of Northeastern Minnesota within Cook, Lake and St. Louis counties on county, state, and federal land.

Process & Methods:

The Minnesota Moose Collaborative has implemented a variety of habitat enhancement treatments across the core of moose range in Northeast Minnesota on County, State, Federal, and Tribal lands since 2013. Improving moose browse calls for treatments that regenerate preferred brush and tree species. In some places this happens through natural or human disturbance. Natural disturbances like wildfires provide excellent moose browse according to biologists. Most logging on uplands results in some regeneration of moose browse. However, there are tens of thousands of acres in moose range that will not see a natural browse regenerating event like fire or do not have enough volume of merchantable wood to make an economical timber sale. In these areas the collaborative used bulldozers, brush saw crews, and prescribed fires to shear, cut, and burn the old decadent brush and stimulate re-growth that is more palatable, nutritious, and easy to reach for moose.

Cover for hiding from predators and protection from the elements is another part of the habitat equation. Research has shown that moose prefer forests with mixed conifer and deciduous trees. The pre-settlement forest in Northeast MN was 70% conifers and 30% deciduous trees. Today that ratio is completely reversed with 70% deciduous and only 30% conifers. Improving cover habitat for moose means restoring conifers on the landscape. The Minnesota Moose Habitat Collaborative has planted close to 3 million trees including white spruce, white pine, jack pine, and white cedar. The pine and cedar must be protected from browsing by deer and hare using budcaps or tree shelters. By the third year after planting, the seedlings need to be released from competition from surrounding trees and brush. The collaborative accomplished this “release” with brush saws which both helps the trees get established and produces another flush of future moose browse.

A look at plat books for counties in Northeast Minnesota quickly emphasizes the need for inter-agency partnerships to produce habitat results at a meaningful scale. The ownership pattern looks like a patchwork quilt of County, Federal, and State lands (private as well but funds for this project are limited to public lands). There is not an acre that gets worked on without some level of collaboration and cooperation between partner staff. The first cut at site selection was made by looking at forest inventory data and local knowledge of potential project areas. With time and experience, collaborative partners have refined the search for good moose habitat projects and added and dropped stands as field visits were conducted. Proposals for specific work plans at each site are shared with wildlife biologists for their approval as beneficial to moose. Partners decided who will manage the bidding and contracting, order necessary supplies, supervise the work, complete the documentation needed for invoicing, track the specifics of what was done at each site, and summarize accomplishments for grant reporting and other communication about the project as a whole. As the grant recipient, MDHA is ultimately responsible for the finances and reporting to the Lessard Sams Outdoor Heritage Council. But, the work it takes to produce results involves many of the partnering agencies.

The variety of combinations of roles and responsibilities between staff from MDHA, the Superior National Forest, Lake County Forestry, DNR, The Nature Conservancy, and the 1854 Treaty Authority that play out in completing the work is impressive. For example, Lake County Forestry may identify a potential project on lands they manage, a Forest Service biologist may review and approve it as a good moose project, the 1854 Treaty Authority might collect pre-treatment data that is being used to track effectiveness, The Nature Conservancy may order the trees and line up the planting crew, Lake County supervises the work, The Nature Conservancy again handles the documentation and site specific data and finally MDHA pays the contractor’s invoice and then requests reimbursement in the form of State managed grant funds.

Field sampling and aerial surveys conducted by the 1854 Treaty Authority, U of M's Natural Resources Research Institute, the Fond Du Lac Band, and other agency and tribal biologists are showing that moose are preferentially using the sites that were treated through this project.

Explain Partners, Supporters, & Opposition:

The Moose Habitat Collaborative is made up of the following partners: Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, Superior National Forest, The Nature Conservancy, 1854 Treaty Authority, Fond du Lac Band, Grand Portage Band, Cook County, Lake County, St. Louis County, and University of Minnesota Duluth, Natural Resources Research Institute.

Additional Comments:

Exceptional challenges, expectations, failures, opportunities, or unique aspects of program

A unique aspect of this program is the large number of parcels spread across a wide geography on a mix of ownerships. these factors require a high degree of coordination between partners through all phase of planning, work, and reporting. Through funding such a project, LSOHC has made an important contribution to landscape scale cross boundary collaboration that will serve the state well as we anticipate future large scale habitat issues. As with the first phase of this project, prescribed burning was difficult to accomplish on a large number of acres mostly due to weather. The availability of contractors for winter shearing and other mechanical site preparation is becoming limited in Northeast MN. We were still able to accomplish significant acres of this work but prices are on the rise as competition thins out.

Other Funds Received:

- Not Listed

How were the funds used to advanced the program:

Not Listed

What is the plan to sustain and/or maintain this work after the Outdoor Heritage Funds are expended:

The partners in the MN Moose Collaborative have a proven track record of working together on subsequent funding proposals to ensure that we are able to provide necessary follow up work that will ensure the success of our enhancement efforts on these parcels. The partners will include these parcels in our portfolio of sites and solicit public and private funds necessary for their continued maintenance. Future maintenance and operations cost varies by parcel and treatment. For the purpose of estimating future maintenance cost, any site that receives tree planting will require approximately $300 per acre from the end of the Outdoor Heritage Fund grant expiration until the seedlings are considered free to grow.

Outcomes:

The original accomplishment plan stated the program would

Programs in the northern forest region:

- Healthy populations of endangered, threatened, and special concern species as well as more common species
- Increased availability and improved condition of riparian forests and other habitat corridors

How will the outcomes be measured and evaluated?

Outcomes: Increase in quality, diversity and quantity of browse available for moose using primarily shearing and prescribed fire. Increase stand complexity and maintain thermal cover components using a variety of silvicultural techniques. Evaluation: UMD - NRRI completed a study of moose use within the project area and verified that moose browsing and/or moose pellets were found on a large majority of the habitat management units. Documented use by moose indicates that habitat management very likely benefited the moose population in Minnesota.

Explain any budget challenges or successes:

An amendment to the budget on June 11, 2018 reduced personnel from $75,800 to $10,800, travel from $5,300 to $0, professional services from $2,300 to $1440, direct support services from $1,000 to $0. TNC, Grand Portage and the University of Minnesota were anticipated to provide leverage, however, they did not provide funds. 1854 Treaty Authority/Grand Portage supplied a report in place of funds. MDHA anticipated having more personnel time to include towards the leverage, however, we did not incur as much expense as we expected. Leverage of $115,300 was provided by USFS.
